

Headlines:

- Newly Revealed Vision of St. Pope John Paul: Islam will Invade Europe
- Saudi Crown Prince Speaks on Anti-Corruption Drive, Islam, Women's Rights and New Hitler
- Pakistan Welcomes US Offer to take on Tehreek-i-Taliban Pakistan(TTP)

Details:

Newly Revealed Vision of St. Pope John Paul: Islam will Invade Europe

A close friend of Saint John Paul II has affirmed that the late pope, revealed to have been a mystic, told him that Europe would be invaded by Islam. Speaking to a large group at the hermitage of "Saints Peter and Paul" this past October, Monsignor Mauro Longhi of the Opus Dei prelature recounted a conversation he had with the late pontiff in March of 1993 on one of their many hiking trips in the mountains. Having got ahead of the rest of their companions, Longhi and St. John Paul took a sandwich break. In video footage of the October talk, Longhi is heard saying that he noticed that the saint's hands were trembling. (John Paul's Parkinson's disease had not yet been revealed in 1993.) The pope noticed the then-young man's gaze. "Dear Mauro, it's old age," he explained. Longhi jumped in to say, "But, no, Holiness, you are young." "It's not true," the pope snapped back. "I say that I am old because I am old." Longhi continued: "Then Wojtyla changed tone, and making me privy to one of his night-time visions, told me, 'Tell this to those whom you will meet in the Church of the third millennium. I see the Church afflicted by a deadly scourge. Deeper, more painful and more deadly than those of this millennium', referring to ... communism and Nazi totalitarianism. 'It's called islamism. They will invade Europe. I saw the hordes coming from the West to the East', and he described to me the countries one by one: from Morocco to Libya to Egypt, and so on to the eastern parts. The Holy Father added, 'They will invade Europe, Europe will be like a cellar, old relics, shadowy, cobwebs. Family heirlooms. You, the Church of the third millennium, will have to contain the invasion. Not with armies, armies will not suffice, but with your faith, lived with integrity.' 'Christians to be trained in "an objective knowledge of Islam". In Ecclesia in Europe, John Paul II wrote that... A proper relationship with Islam is particularly important. As has often become evident in recent years to the Bishops of Europe, this "needs to be conducted prudently, with clear ideas about possibilities and limits, and with confidence in God's saving plan for all his children". It is also necessary to take into account the notable gap between European culture, with its profound Christian roots, and Muslim thought. In this regard, Christians living in daily contact with Muslims should be properly trained in an objective knowledge of Islam and enabled to draw comparisons with their own faith. Such training should be provided particularly to seminarians, priests and all pastoral workers. It is on the other hand understandable that the Church, even as she asks the European institutions to ensure the promotion of religious freedom in Europe, should feel the need to insist that reciprocity in guaranteeing religious freedom also be observed in countries of different religious traditions, where Christians are a minority. [Source: LifeSiteNews]

سُئِلَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ: أَيُّ الْمَدِينَتَيْنِ تُفْتَحُ أَوَّلًا: قُسْطَنْطِينِيَّةٌ أَوْ رُومِيَّةٌ؟ فَقَالَ رَسُولُ اللَّهِ صَلَّى اللَّهُ عَلَيْهِ وَسَلَّمَ: (مَدِينَةُ هِرَاقْلُ تُفْتَحُ أَوَّلًا)، يَعْنِي: قُسْطَنْطِينِيَّةٌ. When the messenger of Allah (saw) was asked: "which of the two cities will be conquered first – Constantinople or Rome?" and the Prophet (ﷺ) replied: "The city of Heraclius (Constantinople) will be conquered first". The conquest of Rome and therefore is only a matter of time.

Saudi Crown Prince Speaks on Anti-Corruption Drive, Islam, Women's Rights and New Hitler

Saudi Arabia's Crown Prince Mohammed bin Salman has called the Supreme Leader of Iran "the new Hitler of the Middle East". In an interview with the New York Times published on Thursday, Mohammed bin Salman, who is also Saudi defense minister, suggested the Islamic Republic's alleged expansion under Ayatollah Ali Khamenei needed to be confronted. "But we learned from Europe that appeasement doesn't work. We don't want the new Hitler in Iran to repeat what happened in Europe in the Middle East," the paper quoted him as saying. Here is Mohammed bin

Salman's take on different issues. It's "ludicrous," he said, to suggest that this anticorruption campaign was a power grab. He pointed out that many prominent members of the Ritz crowd had already publicly pledged allegiance to him and his reforms, and that "a majority of the royal family" is already behind him, the New York Times article said. "Our country has suffered a lot from corruption from the 1980s until today. The calculation of our experts is that roughly 10 percent of all government spending was siphoned off by corruption each year, from the top levels to the bottom. Over the years the government launched more than one 'war on corruption' and they all failed. Why? Because they all started from the bottom up," he is quoted to have said. "We show them all the files that we have and as soon as they see those about 95 percent agree to a settlement," which means signing over cash or shares of their business to the Saudi state treasury. According to him, the public prosecutor says it could eventually "be around $100 billion in settlements". Mohammed bin Salman insisted that the Saudi-backed war in Yemen was tilting in the direction of the legitimate government there, which, he said is now in control of 85 percent of the country. According to him, given the fact that pro-Iranian Houthi rebels, who hold the rest, launched a missile at Riyadh airport, anything less than 100 percent is still problematic. According to the article, Mohammed bin Salman said: "Do not write that we are 'reinterpreting' Islam — we are 'restoring' Islam to its origins — and our biggest tools are the Prophet's practices and [daily life in] Saudi Arabia before 1979." He praised President Trump as "the right person at the right time" and added that with his support the Saudis and their Arab allies were slowly building a coalition to stand up to Iran. [Source: Al Arabiya].

Despite what Muhammed bin Salman may think, he is a corrupt dictator to the core. A new Hitler of the Middle East determined to slaughter Muslims and secularize Islam.

Pakistan welcomes US offer to take on Tehreek-i-Taliban Pakistan(TTP)

Days before crucial talks with the US defence secretary, Pakistan has welcomed an American offer to take action against militants involved in cross-border raids from the Afghan soil, the Voice of America radio service reported on Wednesday. The official US news outlet also reported that Pakistan believed the US offer "augurs well" for regional counterterrorism cooperation. US Defence Secretary James Mattis is expected in Islamabad on Dec 3 for talks aimed at enlisting Pakistan's support for implementing the new US strategy for Afghanistan. The strategy seeks to force the Taliban to join the Afghan peace process by defeating them in the battlefield. Pakistan welcomes the US plan for persuading Taliban to seek reconciliation with the Afghan government but says that there's no military solution to this dispute. Earlier reports had suggested that the US military chief Gen Joseph Dunford could also visit Islamabad before Secretary Mattis for talks with his Pakistani counterpart and other senior officials. But official sources in Washington now say that Gen Dunford may not visit Islamabad, at least not before Secretary Mattis. Diplomatic observers in Washington, however, see the US offer to take on TTP militants, and Pakistan's acceptance of the offer, as a positive development. In Rawalpindi, the chief spokesman for the Pakistani military, Major Gen Asif Ghafoor, told VOA his country had always offered and sought cooperation to strengthen border security. "Unilaterally Pakistan, having cleared all areas on Pakistan side, has restored writ of [the] state, including steps like enhancing [troop] presence along the border [with Afghanistan], establishing new forts and posts and has also started to fence the border to deny freedom of movement to illegal crossers and terrorists," Mr Ghafoor explained. The offer to take action against anti-Pakistan militants came from Gen John Nicholson, who commands both US and Nato forces in Afghanistan. Addressing a news conference in Kabul on Monday, Gen Nicholson said his offer was meant to discourage Pakistan's army from shooting across the border into Afghanistan while responding to border raids by militants. "We have also offered if they [Pakistan] have a concern about anything on this side of the Durand Line [the border] to let us know and we will act against it so that it is not necessary for cross-border shelling to occur," he said. Afghan officials claim that last week Pakistani forces fired hundreds of rounds of mortar shells into the Afghan border province of Kunar, forcing Afghan villagers to flee their homes in harsh winter weather. [Source: The Dawn]

Rather unifying the Afghans and the Pakistanis under a single authority, the Pakistani military brass has again fallen into America's trap of fueling instability in Pakistan. This time America will take action against "TTP" in return for Pakistan taking action against Afghan Taliban.