

Trump Warns "Israel Will Not Exist" if Kamala Harris Becomes President

News:

During the recent presidential debates, former President Donald Trump made a statement that has raised eyebrows both domestically and internationally. Trump declared, "If she's president, I believe that 'Israel' will not exist within two years from now," referring to Vice President Kamala Harris. (Reuters)

Comment:

Trump's statement has sparked sharp reactions across the political spectrum and raised concerns about the implications for U.S. foreign policy, particularly in the Middle East. Both candidates dodged direct questions about how they would address the ongoing war in Gaza, while Trump made bold and provocative claims about the entity's future under a Harris presidency. He asserted, "If she's president, I believe that 'Israel' will not exist within two years from now," once again referencing Vice President Harris.

Trump recently told the Republican Jewish Coalition that "'Israel' is gone" if Harris becomes president. He has also made similar remarks in the past, stating that Jews who vote for Democrats "hate 'Israel'." In her response, Harris highlighted her long-standing support for 'Israel' and its people. "Throughout my career and life, I have supported 'Israel' and the 'Israeli' people," she said.

What is clear is that the Zionist entity's reliance on Western support, particularly from the United States. We must remind the Ummah to remain firm upon the Islamic solution, and that the issue to Palestine is an Islamic issue, with a solution from Islam. Our efforts must be united in creating a unified prophetic response. A response that calls justice of Allah (swt) from Islam. We must continue to hold the oppressors accountable, remind them of accountability in front of Allah (swt) on the Day of Judgement. We must educate ourselves regarding the systems of Islam that protect the Ummah. We must continue to expose the fleecing of the world that is taking place to pay for a genocide. We must understand the reality and the historical narrative behind the occupation and spread its awareness.
