The Kyrgyz Authorities Escalate Their Provocative Measures Ahead of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization Summit

(Translated)

On August 31 of this year, the capital of Kyrgyzstan, Bishkek, will host the Twenty-Fifth Summit of the Heads of State of the Shanghai Cooperation Organization (SCO). This organization was established to combat four threats: terrorism, extremism, separatism, and drug trafficking.

Since its establishment, the organization has consistently targeted Muslims under the pretext of combating terrorism and extremism. Under the pretext of combating separatism, the Uyghurs and other Muslims in China have been subjected to persecution.

The reality indicates that the Kyrgyz authorities, as hosts of the upcoming summit, have begun implementing their commitments early. In this context, they have intensified efforts to arrest carriers of the Islamic call (dawah carriers) and have organized raids and security operations under the pretext of combating extremism and terrorism. An operation carried out in the Osh and Batken regions was officially announced, during which 31 people were arrested on terrorism-related charges.

Not long afterward, arbitrary searches were conducted in Bishkek targeting the homes of several carriers of the Islamic call and our Muslim sisters. For example, at around six o'clock in the morning on June 12, 2026, officers from the Internal Affairs Department of the Sverdlov District in Bishkek disturbed the family of one of the callers to Islam and tricked them into opening the door. They informed them that the homeowner's vehicle had been involved in a collision and asked him to come outside. As soon as Sister Isenbaeva Mayramkan stepped outside, security personnel in civilian clothing surrounded her and entered the house.

After entering, they searched all the rooms in a manner resembling gangs of thieves and criminals. During the search, the belongings that our pregnant sister had prepared for her upcoming delivery were scattered and jumbled, and the family's objections were ignored. When the officers failed to find any illegal materials or possessions in the house, they confiscated mobile phones and also seized the data storage unit connected to the home's surveillance cameras.

As a result of this incident, our pregnant sister experienced severe stress and high blood pressure, and she was delayed from taking her medication. Later, her health condition deteriorated and swelling appeared, forcing doctors to perform a Caesarean section. According to the doctors, her condition had been good before the incident.

It appears that these officials have forgotten that the Dua'a of the oppressed is answered without any barrier. The Messenger of Allah (saw) said: «اتَّقِ دَعْوَةَ الْمَظْلُومِ، فَإِنَّهُ»

«Beware of the supplication of the oppressed, for there is no barrier between it and Allah.» (Narrated by al-Bukhari and Muslim).

Three days earlier, officers from the Lenin District Directorate broke a window and forced their way into the home of one of the dawah carriers. Although the homeowner was absent, they searched the house while treating his wife and daughters unjustly and abusively. When they found nothing, the officers behaved brutally, kicking his sixteen-year-old daughter in the leg, twisting her arm, pushing her against a wall, and forcibly taking her phone. Her father later reported that she suffered a concussion.

In addition, several young men engaged in Islamic da'wah activities were summoned for questioning, and some were informed that criminal cases had been opened against them on charges of "extremism." As is evident from these excessive and arbitrary searches carried out by the security agencies, such measures may be intended to win the approval of the Russian and Chinese leaderships ahead of the SCO summit. Without orders from higher authorities, the Kyrgyz police would not have dared to cross every red line and commit injustices against our Muslim sisters, who represent our honor and dignity.

In this regard, Allah Almighty says in a Hadith Qudsi: «يَا عِبَادِي، إِنِّي حَرَّمْتُ الظُّلْمَ عَلَىٰ نَفْسِي، وَجَعَلْتُهُ بَيْنَكُمْ مُحَرَّمًا، فَلَا تَظَالَمُوا» “O My servants, I have forbidden oppression for Myself and have made it forbidden among you, so do not oppress one another.” (Narrated by Muslim)

The authorities may also carry out sensational incidents following these measures, such as explosions that are later attributed to Muslims, as similar events have previously been carried out by individuals connected to the Kremlin.

Furthermore, such provocative practices serve as a means of diverting people's attention from the growing tensions in the country's domestic politics, the ever-increasing cost of living, and many other problems.

In conclusion, the people of Kyrgyzstan must not allow Muslims to be subjected to pressure and persecution before every summit held in the country. Whether these injustices are committed under direct orders from the authorities or are the result of officials exceeding their instructions, Muslims are obligated to understand reality correctly and contribute to stopping oppression, whether by action or by speech, each according to his ability.

The Messenger of Allah (saw) said: «وَالَّذِي نَفْسِي بِيَدِهِ، لَتَأْمُرَنَّ بِالْمَعْرُوفِ، وَلَتَنْهَوْنَ عَنِ الْمُنْكَرِ، أَوْ لَيُؤْثِقَنَّ اللَّهُ أُنْفُسَكُمْ عَلَيْهِمْ عِقَابًا مِنْهُ، ثُمَّ تَدْعُونَهُ فَلَا يَسْتَجَابُ لَكُمْ» “By the One in Whose Hand is my soul, you must enjoin what is right and forbid what is wrong, or Allah will soon send upon you a punishment from Him; then you will call upon Him, but He will not answer you.” (Narrated by al-Tirmidhi, who said: Hasan Sahih)
