Has Gaza Been Left Without Mourners?

(Translated)

Killing, destruction, and siege have become Gaza's daily reality. However, what is new is that its condition and news have drifted away from media attention and the eyes of the Ummah, much like the situation in Ash-Sham, where the Jewish army bombards every remaining weapon there, fearing it could impact their entity's security should those who revere Allah's deen take control of Ash-sham. These are the people who yearn to liberate Al-Quds, support Gaza's people for Allah's sake, and strive in His cause.

In this overshadowed scene, the Palestinian Authority and its security forces act as obedient tools for the Jews. They chase the mujahideen, deploy snipers, and kill them in cold blood, mimicking the Jews' actions, just as Bashar and his militias did in Ash-Sham.

While the people of Gaza and all of Palestine rejoice, like every Muslim, in the deliverance of Ash-Sham from the tyrant, the Jewish army spares them no moment to experience this joy. Their siege has tightened unbearably: if they remain in their homes, they are bombed; if they step outside, they are sniped; and if they seek refuge in hospitals, they are killed. Criminal forces surround them on every side, enforcing the siege with the aid of treacherous rulers, who at the very least remain silent and silence their people. At worst, they enforce the siege and supply weapons and equipment to ensure the continuation of their extermination, leaving Gaza seemingly abandoned, without help, without rescue, and without even mourners to lament its plight.

The joy in Ash-Sham remains incomplete, as celebration coexists with mourning in Syria and the Golan, in Gaza, and throughout Palestine. It is a joy overshadowed by the plight of the blessed land alone, hunted, slain, and dispossessed. How can there be joy in Ash-Sham when its crown lies captive, and Gaza bleeds like a slain victim?

O people of Ash-Sham, its heroes, and mujahideen: the sanctified journey of your Prophet (swt) lies but a stone's throw away. The people of Palestine look to you with great hope, for they are your family and brethren. Their call to you, despite their wounds, is to open the northern front. Let the soldiers of Egypt open the southern front after they rise against their tyrant as you rose against yours. Let the soldiers of Jordan open the eastern front after they overthrow the British puppet there, so that the Ummah may tighten its grip on the Jewish entity, cornering it by the sea to the west. By the grace and will of Allah, its end will then be written by your hands.

This is a call for Ash-Sham and Egypt to return to their historic role as the launchpad for liberation, its maker, as in Hattin and Ain Jalut. On that day, the people of Gaza, all of Palestine, Ash-Sham, Egypt, and the entire Ummah will rejoice. Any victory short of this is incomplete, for the days and the schemes of traitors will turn fleeting celebrations into sorrow and pain, leaving Palestine and its Gaza without mourners.

﴿يَا أَيُّهَا الَّذِينَ آمَنُوا إِن تَنصُرُوا اللَّهَ يَنْصُرْكُمْ وَيُثَبِّتْ أَقْدَامَكُمْ﴾

“O you who have believed, if you support Allah, He will support you and plant firmly your feet.” [Surat Muhammad:7]
